trail also runs through Graham Swamp.

In the 3,000-acre conservation zone of Graham Swamp, the trail has elevated views of the surrounding wetlands. Watch here for some of Florida's wildlife species, including wading birds, waterfowl, deer, otters, foxes, and alligators.

Just past where the trail crosses I-95, at Town Center Blvd., a newly-constructed spur trail heads south along Town Center Blvd. This spur follows alongside the road and then hinges west along Central Ave. until reaching Central Park, a grassy 10-acre park featuring a lake and a decorative fountain.

Overview

The Lehigh Greenway Rail Trail, often shortened to just the Lehigh Trail, is an 8.71-mile rail trail located in Flagler County on a former railroad corridor comprising 195 acres. The railroad spur once carried cement and other materials to and from the Lehigh Portland Cement Plant in Flagler Beach.

About the Route

The Lehigh Greenway Rail Trail runs through the center of Palm Coast, connecting US 1 north of Bunnell with Colbert Lane. Surrounded by trees for most of the way, the trail provides a safe, non-motorized way to travel among the cities of Bunnell, Flagler Beach, and Palm Coast. The
