

2024

TrailLink Unlimited

Guides

Cape Fear
River Trail
North Carolina

Cape Fear River Trail

North Carolina

The Cape Fear River Trail winds through a mix of woodlands and marshes on Fayetteville's north side, offering stunning views of the too (overnight stays are permitted, but there is no electricity and only cold showers). The park's trailhead was named in honor of Moses Mathis, known locally as the "Bicycle Man" for his two decades of work running youth enrichment programs, including providing bikes to children in need; a memorial plaque allows visitors the opportunity to learn more about this inspirational person.

The Cape Fear River Trail is part of the East Coast Greenway, a series of urban greenways that will eventually extend from Maine to Key West, Florida.

The Cape Fear River Trail winds through a mix of woodlands and marshes on Fayetteville's north side, offering stunning views of the Cape Fear River. The trail is relatively flat but with some hills. You will encounter boardwalks and bridges, even one covered bridge. Wildlife abounds here: frogs, lizards, and deer are all common sights. Interpretive signage educates trail users about the local flora and fauna, including more than 700 species of plant and tree and 150 species of bird.

At its southern end is Clark Park Nature Center, a recreational gem offering both educational displays and live animals (snakes, turtles, and alligators!). Here, visitors can go on guided walks with rangers and naturalists, stop for a picnic, or simply enjoy the views (including a waterfall). There's a primitive campground,

Cape Fear River Trail

North Carolina

States: North Carolina

Counties: Cumberland

Length: 7.5miles

Trail end points: Cape Fear River near the Amtrak crossing to Jordan Soccer Complex (Tree Top Dr.)

Trail surfaces: Asphalt, Boardwalk

Trail category: Rail-Trail

Trail activities: Bike, Inline

Skating, Fishing, Walking

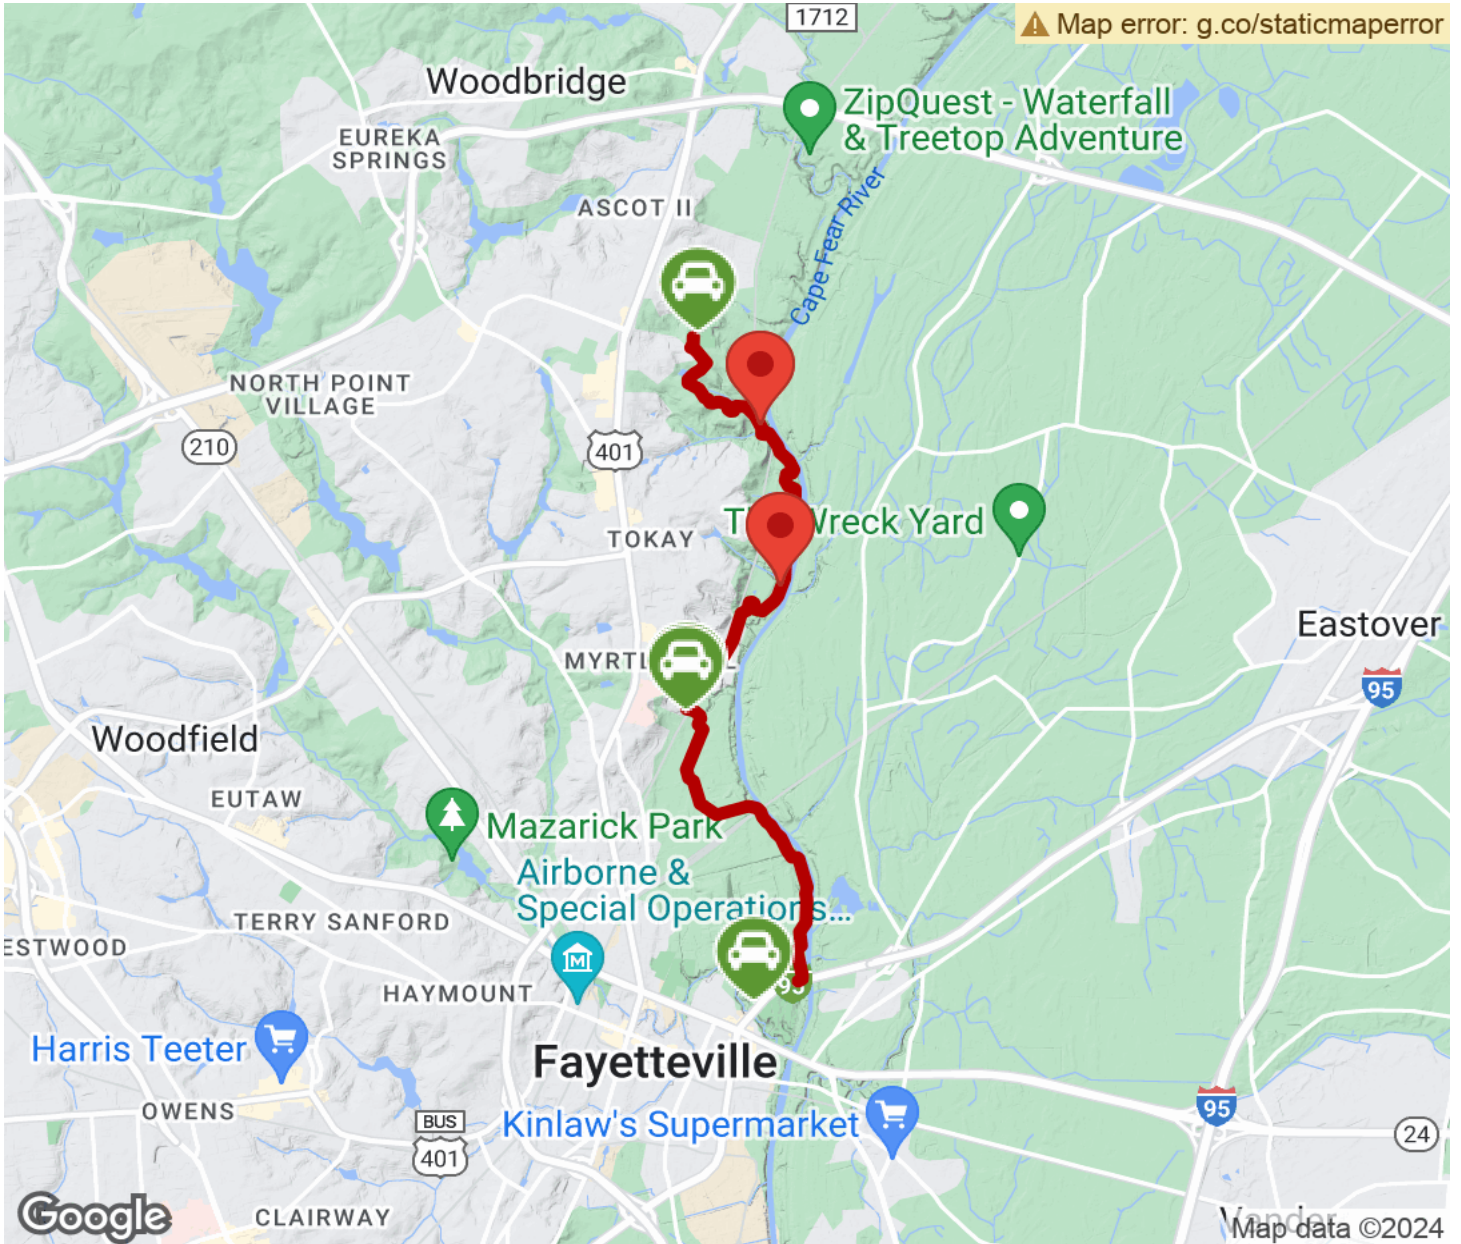

Parking & Trail Access

Parking is available at the southern terminus: Clark Park Nature Center, 631 Sherman Drive, at the end of the road. You can also park at the Jordan Soccer Complex, 445 Tree Top Drive, the northern terminus.

Cape Fear River Trail

North Carolina

Trailhead

Restroom

Parking

Water Fountain

Tunnel

TrailLink
by Rails-to-Trails Conservancy

TrailLink.com