The paved North Minnesota River Trail hugs its namesake river for much of its journey on the western end of Mankato. Along the way, it offers views of the river, limestone cliffs and the city. From its southern end, you can access popular Sibley Park, where you can enjoy a variety of recreational opportunities, including softball, tennis, fishing, picnicking and even a farm.

The North Minnesota River Trail also provides important connections to two other trails: the 13-mile Red Jacket Trail near its southern end, and the 39-mile Sakatah Singing Hills State Trail at its northern end.
