The John Barfield Trail offers a paved route through the wooded Little Bear Creek corridor of North Richland Hills. The trail is named for an important local developer who dedicated many acres of land for city parks, including three located just off the trail: J.B. Sandlin Park, Tommy and Sue Brown Park, and Founders Park.

At either end, the pathway provides important connections to other trails; on its east end to the Cotton Belt Trail and, on its west end, to the Fall Creek Trail and Little Bear Creek Linear Park in the neighboring city of Keller.
